LOUIS ADELSON, $\Phi E \Pi$

B.S. in Civil Engineering

CHELSEA

"Louie"

Chelsea High School; Class Baseball (1, 2); 2nd Team Baseball (1, 2); Hockey Team.

When Louie struck the Hill, his greatest ambition was to play short-stop. But being somewhat of a rover, he gave up this for a position of goal-tender on the hockey team. His playing, however, gave him quite a reputation, as was evidenced by a very healthy black eye.

ARTHUR RANDOLPH ATKINS, $A T \Omega$

B.S. in Civil Engineering

ROSLINDALE

"Tommy"

Mechanic Arts High School; Class Football (2); Class Day (4); Associate Editor JUMBO (4).

As a conversationalist, with plenty of stress on "con," Tommie wins the belt. Besides being intelligent in appearance, Arthur is quite a student—for an engineer—and quite a man for the "social whirl."

GILBERT EDWARD BALDWIN

B.S. in Chemical Engineering

ROXBURY

"Baldie"

Boston English High School; Tufts Reporter—Boston American (4).

"Speed" is "Baldy's" middle name, both as a waiter and as a newspaper correspondent. It's quite thrilling, you know, to read his write-ups of the game which you are waiting to see played.

LEON EUGENE BALL, $\Theta \Delta X$

A.B. in Economics

SOUTH BERWICK, ME.

"Leon" "Dynamite"

Phillips Exeter Academy; Dramatics (2, 3).

Leon is little—but oh, my! Truly, "Nature hath produced strange fellows in her time." Five feet of rag-time and political economist combined. Leon long ago became dissatisfied with his environment and took several courses in the North, South, and West Ends. Needless to say, he received "A" in each course.

HOWARD SEARLES BARTLETT, $\Delta T \Delta$

A.B. in Economics

BROOKLINE

"Asty the Stoneman" "Bart"

Roxbury Latin School; Class Football (2); Class Track (2); Class Basketball (2, 3); Dramatics (4); Literary Editor JUMBO (4).

Asty's reputation of three long years as a woman hater is at last ruined. He looks bashful but—oh my! His cherubic face is a snare and a delusion. It is simply—well, "watch your step," girls!

ALBERT VERNER BRATT, Δ T Δ

B.S. in Chemistry

EVERETT

"Al" "Swede"

Everett High School; Class Football (1); Class Baseball (1, 2); Class Track (1, 2); Class Basketball (2, 3, 4); Varsity Football Squad (1, 2); Varsity Football Team (3, 4); Varsity Track Team (1, 2, 3); Chairman Cap and Gown Committee (4); Sword and Shield; Ivy; Tower Cross.

When Al isn't trying to dope out some way to use plaster-paris in making bread, you'll invariably find him teaching little yeast-bacteria to swim. During football season, "Al" was wont to cry out the signals in his sleep, but it has since been confirmed that he was only computing the number of miles to Turner Falls.

HORTON BROWN, Z Ψ

B.S. in Electrical Engineering

MARBLEHEAD

"Brownie"

Salem High School; Class Football (1, 2); Class Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4); Freshman Football Coach (3); Varsity Football Squad (1, 2, 4).

Who is there who doesn't know the famous "Horton System" as witnessed by the victorious 1919 football team? Somewhere in his sea-chest in his cabin in West Hall, "Barnacle" has stowed away evidence of his life as a Marblehead sea-captain to beguile any credulous land-lubber who comes down the hatchway.

COLBY LEWIS BURBANK, Δ T Δ

B.S. in Civil Engineering

Revere High School; Manager Class Football (2); Class Basketball (4); Secretary Class Day Committee (4).

Every time "Burby" looks through the peephole of a transit he is trying to find money with which to buy "Sweet Caps." With this end in view, you'll see him measuring the distance from here to Revere. As a minister's son, "Burby" is a failure.

DANIEL CLARENCE CAMERON, Δ T Δ

B.S. (General)

ARLINGTON

"Dinny" "Dan"

Arlington High School; Manager Class Basketball (1); Chairman Class Pipe Committee (2); Assistant Manager Varsity Football (3); Dramatics (4).

If polygamy were only permissible, then "Dinny" would be the happiest man in college. To ascertain the number of times he has been engaged, married, and then divorced, would require a Chinese adding-machine. Business should prove more fortunate to "Dinny" than love-affairs—at least we hope so.

PHILIP AMORY CARR, C. C.

B.S. in Chemical Engineering

LAWRENCE

"Pop" "Phil"

Lawrence High School; Glee Club (2); Class Day Committee (4); President Chemical Society (4).

"Phil" is due to be a big man—in the field of Chemistry. Maybe his "delicate" voice will take him into Grand Opera. If not that, we are sure Zybyesco will find some use for him.

LEON JULIUS CARRO, C. C.

A.B.

BEACHMONT

"Ky" "Omar"

Berkeley Preparatory School; Class Basketball (1, 2, 3); Class Baseball (1, 2); Class Track (1); Chess Club (1, 2).

"Ki" admits that he lost something the first of this year, but that he is still searching and receiving daily reports. Never mind, "Ki," stick to "Tom and Jerry" and forget it all.

PHILIP LITTLEFIELD CODDINGTON, Z Ψ

B.S. in Economics

BERLIN, N. H.

"Phil" "Coddie" "Abe"

Medford High School; Manager Class Track (1); Class Football (1); Manager Varsity Football (4).

"Caddy" was all right as football manager, but his real field is literary criticism. In fact, he is even better at "panning" past masters of literary art than he is at breaking "Zozodont" bottles with his rifle from an upper story in Dean—which is strong talk. "Phil" is an advocate of free love, calisthenics, and Goodyear Cords.

ELMER DENFORTH COLCORD

B.S., B.D., B.S. in English and Education

PITTSFIELD, MAINE

Canton (Mass.) High School; Tufts College Teachers' Association. (4).

Colcord got most of his training for a "Theolog" by preaching to the class. He doesn't behave at all the way a minister should. In fact he spends most of his time following the tape and raising a racquet generally. But he can play tennis.

"He will give the devil his due."

GEORGE WILLIAM COLLINS, Φ Δ

B.S. in Chemistry

MEDFORD

"Bill"

Rindge Manual Training School; Class Baseball (1, 2); Class Basketball (1); Commencement Usher (3); Evening Party Association (4).

George intends to go into the banking game—banking the one-ball in the side pocket. He long ago found the answer to the question: "Willie Hoppe?" by cultivating his famous "perfect posture."

HAROLD EDWARD COLLINS, Σ T A

B.S. in General Science

HAVERHILL

"Duck"

Haverhill High School; Weekly Staff (1, 2, 3); Class Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4); Junior Day "Horribles" Committee (3); Circulation Manager Weekly (3, 4); Class Picture Committee (4); Secretary Democratic Club (4); Pen, Paint and Pretzels.

"Duck" says that if he ever wrote a movie story, it would be similar to "Hulda" or "Hilda" or something like that—"from Holland." "Duck" enjoyed this very much. "Duck" never studied medicine nor hygiene, but he makes a good "Circulation Manager" for the Weekly.

BERNARD DOMINIC CONNOR, C. C.
B.S. in Civil Engineering
 SOMERVILLE
 "Bernie"

Somerville High School; Class Football (2); Wrestling Team (4).

"Bernie" always has to "work" on Wednesday and Friday evenings. When there is a Wrestling Match or a Basketball Game he brings his "work" with him. May work always be as easily transported and as intensely interesting!

LOUKAS NICHOLAS COUSSOULE
History and Public Law
 ATHENS, GREECE
 "Lussan" "Nick"

Sparta Gymnasium, Somersworth High School.

"Nick" is perfectly harmless until you get him into a class. Then with the aid of a pocket-dictionary and a toss of his mane, he'll tell you all you want to know about the subject—if you can understand him.

FRANCIS GREGORY CURTIN
B.S. in Chemistry
 "Greg"

Medford High School.

Frank is one of the best little personifiers of the "Golden Silence" that we have at the Hill. He comes and goes, we know not where, but he's always around when it comes to a helping hand.

"To hear his girlish voice in laughter ring,
 But oh, ye gods, to hear him sing."

ROLAND CROCKER DAVIES, Δ T Δ
A.B. in Journalism
 SOMERVILLE
 "Skip"

Somerville High School; Weekly Staff (1, 2); Associate Editor Weekly (3); Class Hat Committee (3); Junior Day "Horribles" Committee (3); Commencement Usher (3); Evening Party Association (4); Assistant Executive Officer Rifle Club (4); Tufts Reporter—Boston Journal (3, 4); Statistical Editor JUMBO (4).

To pack a gun, look for trouble, and then write the details for his beloved newspaper, has always been "Skip's" ideal. But a season at Plattsburg has quite reformed him, and "Skip's" manly carriage and graceful ease has been very noticeable at dances.

CHESTER THOMAS CAVERLY DAVIS, Φ Δ
B.S. in Civil Engineering
 WOLFEBORO, N. H.
 "Jeff"

Brewster Free Academy; Class Football (2).

"Jeff" is of royal stock, being descended from the Duke of Bull-something-or-other of North Carolina. It's a fine line, too. "Jeff" follows religiously the careers of "Bill" Sunday and "Bill" Bryan. We feel that he could surpass both.

CHESTER REED EARLE, Θ Δ X
B.S. in Mechanical Engineering
LAWRENCE
"Chet"

Lawrence High School; Toastmaster Class Banquet (1); Fencing (2); Musical Clubs (1, 3); Vice-President Engineering Society (3); Junior Day Committee. (3); President Student Branch American Society Mechanical Engineers (4); Commencement Part, Engineering School (4).

When this unfortunate youth was four years old, a friend of the family interrupted his trigonometric prattlings to say that if "Chet" studied fourteen hours a day, and never smoked, chewed, nor wrestled, he would some day be Mayor of Lawrence. It has taken us four long years of strenuous work to neutralize the effect of this evil counsel, but we have at last succeeded.

ROLAND LEONARD EATON, Z Ψ
A.B. in History and English
PHIPPSBURG, MAINE
"Grubs"

Maine Central Institute; Bowdoin ex-'17; Debating Team (3); Dramatics (3); Assistant in English Department (3, 4); Associate Reader Glee Club (4); Weekly Staff (4); Class Picture Committee (4); Tree Orator (4).

As a male "Portia," "Grubby" has few equals, but his real fame lies in his ability to produce quantities of feminine charmers as long as anyone has a nickel. He has a leaning towards debating, and one of his favorite topics is "the fickleness of women in general, and of co-eds in particular."

MIZAE LEME FERREIRA
B.S. in Civil Engineering
BRAZIL
"Duke"

Gymnasio National (Government School); Boston Society, Civil Engineers (3, 4).

The "Duke" doesn't say much. In fact he has quite a time with our language. When he isn't smoking a cigarette, he is drinking coffee. As soon as "Duke" leaves Tufts, he expects to run a few railroads around Brazil. His ambition is to reduce the nickel fare to three cents.

ELIOT CHANDLER FOSTER, C. C.
B.S. in Chemical Engineering
"Eli"

Medford High School; Hook Night Committee (1); Class Constitution Committee (1); Class Football (2); Joint Sophomore Smoker Committee (2); Evening Party Association (3), Secretary-Treasurer (4); Chairman Junior Day "Arrangements" Committee (3); Vice-President of Class (4); Tower Cross.

What would the Evening Parties ever have done without "Eli?" He aspires to be a social "bear," and summers on the coast of Maine for a reason of personal nature. Through the long winters he flourishes in the summer warmth and spring fragrance of the Chem. Lab.

JAN TRAP FRIIS, Z Ψ
B.S. in Economics
MEDFORD
"Jan"

Medford High School; Class Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4); Manager Class Baseball (1); Commencement Usher (3); Evening Party Association (3), President (4); Chairman Junior "Prom." Committee (3); Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball (3), Manager (4); Secretary of Class (4); Secretary Athletic Association (4); Sword and Shield; Ivy; Pen, Paint and Pretzels; Tower Cross.

In order that "Slim" might become "Social Lion par excellence," he changed from the Engineering School to the classic shades of the academic department, and immediately took seminars in the Fells. Jan is partial—we're not saying anything about page 227, line 24, of the Jackson Catalogue, 1916-17 edition—to soft shirts and violins.

RICHARD WINTHROP GREEN

B.S. in Civil Engineering

WINTHROP

"Dick"

Winthrop High School; Class Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4), Manager (2, 3, 4); Class Football (2); Captain Class Basketball (3, 4); Sword and Shield.

There is one thing you can expect from "Dick," and that is, what you don't. If you want to know who started the rough-house, or who is trying to run the automobile up the lamp-post, just inquire at 28 East. On the whole, Dick is quiet,—but you never can tell.

CLARENCE DUNBAR HART, B Θ Π

B.S. in Mathematics

WEST SOMERVILLE

"Doc"

Somerville High School; Goddard Prize in Biology (3); Assistant in Biology (4).

To watch wriggly, writhing things is Clarence's delight. He really is some cut-up. Clarence makes a trip to Braintree quite often for frog specimens—at least his arrival home at four in the morning would indicate such.

CALVIN MARX HEILEMAN, Σ T A

B.S. in Structural Engineering

PLAISTOW, N. H.

"Cuckoo"

Newton (Mass.) Technical High School; Class Banquet Committee (1); Class Track (1, 2); Manager Class Baseball (2); Junior Day "Spread" Committee (3); Treasurer of Class (4); Treasurer Class Day Committee (4); Pen, Paint and Pretzels.

Heileman noiselessly ascended the stairs in his stocking feet, carrying his shoes by the straps. "Calvin," rang out the stern voice of his parent, "What time is it?" "Twelve o'clock, ma'm." Whereupon the cuckoo-clock promptly struck three times. Nothing daunted, Heileman cuckooed the other nine times and got away with it. Heaven help the Class if "Cuckoo" should steal the funds as he does other fellow's girls!

CHARLES RAYMOND HERALD, A T Ω

B.S. in Structural Engineering

EVERETT

"Ray"

Everett High School.

"Ray" has never been affiliated with Metcalf Hall, for Everett offered a better course. While a Saturday grocery clerk he became mixed up with some shrimp or other and had to appear as witness for the defence. It was "pretty smooth, Ray, pretty smooth!"

VIKING RAYMOND HOLMGREN, C. C.

B.S. in Mechanical Engineering

EAST LYNN

"Vick"

Lynn English High School; Fencing Team (2); Student Branch, American Society Mechanical Engineers (4).

Besides waiting for his degree, "Vic" is patiently waiting for a license. Whether this is to run an automobile, bookstore, or house with a fence running around it, could not be ascertained. T-E-L-E-PHONE FOR HOLMGREN.

HAROLD FRANCIS HURLEY

B.S. in Chemistry

MALDEN

"Pat"

Malden High School.

"Pat" claims that the fresh air of the Chem Lab beats any of the far-famed breezes of a summer resort or a sanatorium, and therefore we have not seen him around the Hill very much. "Pat" is a great politician and aspires to be the Mayor of Malden in the near future.

HERMAN WENTWORTH JONES, C. C.; Φ B K

B.S. in Chemistry

WEST SOMERVILLE

"Hi"

Somerville High School; Secretary Chemical Society (4).

"Hi" has furnished a room in Paige; he is not, however, to become a "Theolog." All the boys are welcome to visit said room on Class Day. They will then understand the "Why" of said room. And just think, he's a Phi Beta Kappa man, too!

MAHLON GILMAN KNOWLES, C. C.

B.S. in Mechanical Engineering

SWAMPSCOTT

"Joe"

Swampscott High School; Weekly Staff (2); Secretary Publishing Association (3); Assistant in English (3, 4); Vice-President-Treasurer Student Branch, American Society Mechanical Engineers (4); Speaker Class Banquet (4); Associate Editor JUMBO (4).

We have sometimes wondered why "Joe" trailed through the Maine woods, and if his search was in vain. Perhaps this gives us the connecting link to the question of why the Bursar charges him for a room in East and also for non-residence.

FRANKLIN JOHNSON LANE, Z Ψ

B.S. in Economics

WINCHESTER

"Dimps"

Winchester High School; Class Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Baseball (2); Varsity Tennis Team (2, 3, 4), Captain (3, 4); Glee Club (2, 3, 4); Class Hat Committee (3); Junior Day "Spread" Committee (3).

"Dimps" has spent the most of his time in college attending to his toilet. Aside from being a man of fashion, "Dimps" is a man of words—mere words that tire his hearers and raise the temperature of the room. His greatest ambition in life is to raise a beard.

HAROLD BICKFORD LELAND, Σ T A

B.S. in Chemical Engineering

SOMERVILLE

"Lil" "Cement"

Somerville High School; Marshal of Class (1, 2, 3, 4); Class Baseball (1, 2); Class Football (1, 2); Class Basketball (4); Chairman Underclass Rules Committee (4); President Tufts College Athletic Association (4); Varsity Baseball Team (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (4); Sword and Shield; Ivy; Tower Cross.

Although we give "Lil" credit for hitting ability, he fattened his average in the co-ed league. After a game, one night, it was noticed that his face was disfigured. Whether this was caused while sliding for third or for home, could not be ascertained. But if "Lil" has one fault, it is too much smoking, although he did cut down a bit and consumed only two cigars at the Senior Banquet.

CARL ALPHONSO MARSH, ΔΥ
A.B. in History and Public Law
WATERBURY, CONN.

Maynard High School; Assistant in College Library (3); Class Day Committee (4).

Carl's main activity in the summer is throwing trunks around and presenting the itching palm. He always means what he says, says what he means, and would make good either as a peanut vendor or as a foreign diplomat—Lakewood preferred.

JOHN MICHAEL McCARTHY, JR.
B.S. in Civil Engineering
NATICK
"Johnnie" "Mack"

Natick High School.

"Mac" has always been an inhabitant of East Hall during his college course and therefore he will leave Tufts with an expert knowledge of how to keep a room clean and orderly. We understand that he is writing a novel entitled "The Mystery of the Stained Window."

WARREN FRANKLIN MERRITT, ΑΤΩ
B.S. in Civil Engineering
GALVESTON, TEXAS
"Wabbles" "Texas"

Ball High School; Class Track (2); Varsity Track Squad (3); Class Hat Committee (3); Junior Day Committee (3).

"Texas Tommie" hails from the Lone Star State and aspires to his dad's position of chief engineer of the Santa Fe. Although no farmer, "Texas" spends his week-ends in Salem, and makes Hay while the sun shines. They say Mil-dreds not to see Sunday come, for it means a War-ren Salem.

OSCAR EARLE MERROW, ΖΨ; ΦΒΚ
B.S. in Economics
OSSIPPEE, N. H.
"Scoop"

Salem (Mass.) High School; Class Football (1, 2); Class Banquet Committee (2); Athletic Editor of Weekly (2); Tufts Reporter—Boston Globe (2, 3, 4); Editor-in-Chief of Weekly (3); Class Day Committee (4); Sword and Shield; Ivy; Pen, Paint and Pretzels; Tower Cross.

From the first, "Scoop's" stuttering got him in wrong with the matrons of Jackson dorms. It took so long to say goodnight. When he isn't maintaining his perfect attendance at college teas and evening parties, "Scoop" is trotting around—for news.

FRANK COOLEY MILLIMAN, ΔΤΔ
B.S. in Structural Engineering
WEST SOMERVILLE
"Milly"

Mechanic Arts High School; Class Track (1, 2); Fencing Team (2); Student-Secretary Rifle Club (4).

"Millie" is a plugger—there's no doubt about that. His light is burning all hours of the night. Since the founding of the Rifle Club, Frank has taken to developing his eye—both for bulls-eyes, and for misses.

"A lad of mettle—a good boy."

GEORGE ARTHUR MITCHIE, $\Phi \Delta$
B.S. in Mechanical Engineering
 LEXINGTON
 "Mitch"

Lexington High School; Norwich University Ex-17; Class Football (2); Class Basketball (4).

As fife fingerer of the Lexington Fife and Drum Corps, George knows no superior. But his forte is in the study of modern languages. Any student looking for desirable electives should let George fix him up.

ALBERT JOHN MOHOR
B.S. in Chemistry
 NEWTON CENTRE
 "Jim"

Boston English High School.

"Jim" doesn't need the aid of strong tea nor onions to claim the title of Strong Man. Just take a look at the records. Suggest something and "Jim" will be strong for it.

"Were silence golden, I'd be a millionaire."

ARTHUR LEWIS MORSE, C. C.
B.S. in Mechanical Engineering
 WATERTOWN
 "Al"

Watertown High School; Class Football (1, 2); Class Baseball (2); Class Track (2); Glee Club (2); Class Banquet Committee (4); Student Branch, American Society Mechanical Engineers (4).

"Al's" voice is so deep that it makes trouble for him. It went so low once, on the Fall River Liner "Commonwealth," that the captain thought the ship had grounded. For the rest of the trip "Al" was used as a fog-horn.

ERNEST DAWSON MORTENSON, C. C.
B.S. in Civil Engineering
 BEDFORD
 "Mortie"

Concord High School; Class Baseball (2); Class Football (2); Class Track (2); Glee Club (2); Joint Sophomore Smoker Committee (2); Varsity Track Squad (2, 3); Dramatics (staging) (3); Treasurer Civil Engineering Topics (4); Associate Editor JUMBO (4).

"Mortie" has discovered a new word—"Pal"—and it isn't from Purinton's "Efficient Living" either. The discovery has now been made that a certain Medford young lady bestowed that title upon him, and came about through giving Latin lessons and taking Psychology lessons in return.

BYRON FRANKLIN NICHOLS, $\Phi \Delta$

 METHUEN
 "Nick"

Methuen High School; Secretary Student Branch, American Society Mechanical Engineers (4).

"Nick" is at heart a pretty good fellow, although he does have a tendency to be a "rough-neck." Doing Me-chanics is his chief diversion when the pressure of Steam is too much for his fagged brain.

FREDERICK HENRY PAUL, JR., Δ T Δ

"Fred"

Y. M. C. A. Night School; President of Class (1, 2, 4); Class Banquet Committee (1); Class Football (2); Class Track (2); Chairman Joint Sophomore Smoker Committee (2); President Biology Club (4).

No matter what profession Fred enters, he's bound to "take and" make good. Once upon a time—without any exaggeration—he held thirteen cards of the same suit, and was awarded the prize right then and there. The positions of leadership are no "cinch," for "uneasy lies the head that wears the crown!"

HOWARD BENNETT PECK, Δ T

Peck has delved more or less into all the known sciences. He has that subtle touch and that quiescent voice which is admirably adapted to telephone conversations. His activities are several, but he excels as a Walker.

"Jim" is convinced that the world was not made right. While naturally a quiet fellow, "Pat" is a source of terror when practicing for the band or dressing for an Evening Party. On the diamond he is a second Snodgrass.

You who dote on parties, take notice! "Art" is the best mixer we have—and we refer, of course, to sociability. "Art" does quite a bit of studying at Cambridge—at least he spends two nights a week in that direction.

Leo is what Prof. Wilson would term an "A" man and his mark in baseball is about a "B+". Co-ed sports have never interested "Lap" to any extent. Leo's influence has been toward the highest on those with whom he has come in contact.

"Gamma"

Longmont High School; Class Football (2); Junior Day "Horribles" Committee (3); Treasurer Engineering Society (3, 4).

Probably the most popular man that ever entered Gamma Cottage is Lake. 'Tis said that a bevy of co-eds are wont to sit on the cellar stairs and admire the mighty play of muscles as he shovels coal. It must be that kindling the fire in the furnace is akin to kindling the fire of love.

Chauncey Hall; Roxbury Latin School; Hook Night Committee (1); Chairman Class Pipe Committee (2); Toastmaster Class Banquet (2); Treasurer of Class (3); Chairman Class Banquet Committee (3, 4).

"Gramp" is as wild as the Fells. When not walking with the co-eds, "Al" sells dance orders and once-in-a-while works the "skin" game. He is strongly inclined toward the Mormon religion.

We often wondered why "Bill" was such a terpsichorist and why he was in such constant demand among the belles of Lexington. It seems that this nimbleness of feet has been acquired through long practice at chasing nickels on the Middlesex and Boston Ry.

As a regular business man, "P. P." takes the prize. He even keeps a card-index of Fair Ones, lest he show partiality with invitations to functions. As a Minister's son you should know better, Paul; does not the Good Book say: "To one shall the preference be given!"

Winthrop High School; Varsity Football Squad (1, 2, 3); Class Football (1, 2); Class Track (1, 2); President Menorah Society (4); Business Manager JUMBO (4); Varsity Football (4).

"Bill" looks like a determined man, and we haven't as yet seen anything that would hold him up—probably because there is nothing strong enough. "Bill" is a good-natured fellow; running is not his high card and he wasn't built for speed.

"Pete" doesn't say a great deal. He has a characteristic smile which may mean either that he's pleased or is about to sneeze. When he isn't working in solitude on his new prophylactic society, he can be found teaching a Sunday School class of boys the latest in batting averages.

Perhaps "Pete" isn't weaned from home yet, but it is known that there are other attractions in Beverly besides home and mother. By Grace-ious, she's pretty good, too. Truthfully, when "Pete" thinks, we can't tell whether he has a pain or poor eyesight. Book-store accounts show no deficiencies, however.

Had "Wymie" not set his heart upon the business end of the "cinder game," the track team would surely be boasting an intercollegiate sprinter way above the usual class. Unfortunately his time in getting away from the freshman to a $2.00 soph banquet was not taken. "Wyme" has specialized in the Faculty Tea event. "Thy modesty's a candle to thy merit."

When "Louie" began to teach English, he found there was one thing lacking—Dignity! Very simple, thought Louie—I'll grow a mustache. Isn't it funny what a difference a little fuzz will make, though? We'll give "Bill" all the credit in the world for being courageous. He intends to be a martyr to the cause of Chemistry, and enter an ammunition plant. The proverbial penny isn't always so bad, especially when it comes from your sister class. And some day it will be good to "hit the trail" out in that little Western parish and find Eleanor leaning down from the platform to shake hands with that old Jackson Athletic grip of hers. The All-Around Club begins early in the year to justify its name by holding, on the first Saturday evening after the fall term of college opens, its annual Jackson Banquet for the entering students. Not content with this, the club next gives a reception to the Freshmen at some time during the fall. During the past year, the parties celebrating the different holidays and more important events have not been so many as usual, but the annual Christmas Party was not overlooked. This gave some people excellent opportunities for paying back the grudges they had carefully cherished since they received "those grinds" at the party the year before. And the Baby Party, when the Freshmen for once received gentle treatment at the hands of their nurses—the Sophomores—was enjoyed by both the "children" and their "grandmothers" (the Seniors).

Late in the winter, designs were submitted by members of the club for an official Jackson ring, and that made by Muriel Nickerson, '18, was accepted. Still another work remained for the club to accomplish before the close of the year, with the help of Professor Lewis. Marion Jameson, '17, was chosen as chairman to investigate the possibilities for a Jackson Glee Club. In consequence, a chorus trained by Professor Lewis is trying to establish the Glee Club as a permanent institution of Jackson.

At the close of each year the All-Around Club once more asserts itself, and, having welcomed its Freshmen earlier in the year at a banquet, this time it bids farewell to its Seniors by holding a dance for them. And thus do we reach the end of a perfect year, having followed the Club All-Around the year.

The "Masque," the first dramatic organization of Jackson College, was formed during the year of 1915-1916. Its twofold purpose is:

To discuss plays, dramatists, costumes, and whatever other subjects may be classed under the term "dramatics."

To present at least one play annually.

Owing to the fact that its formal organization did not occur until late in the college season, no play was presented in the first year, but during 1917 the society has been responsible for the presentation of Percy MacKaye's American comedy—"Mater." For the enactment of this play, the Pen, Paint and Pretzels Society of Tufts has co-operated with the Jackson group in its initial effort.

The chief business of the Pan-Hellenic Council of Jackson College is the attempt, as a local governing board, to assist the National Pan-Hellenic Association by showing the sorority members in college how to put the PAN in PAN-Hellenic. To this end there are chosen every year two delegates from each sorority on the Hill—one Senior and one Junior—who fix the date for pledge day, and regulate the rules for rushing. Whenever any difficulty arises between the sororities, it becomes the duty of the Council to decide upon the method of solution, and if necessary, to impose whatever penalty its members agree upon. Although the most strenuous work of the local association is at an end, meetings are called at different times throughout the year to discuss ways and means of “improving the conditions of fraternity life and inter-fraternity relationship, and of co-operating with the college authorities in all efforts to improve social and scholarship standards.”

Early in the fall the President of the Council awards to that sorority holding the highest scholarship record for the year previous, a Loving Cup, to be held by the sorority during the year. This cup, presented by the Chi Alpha Chapter of Chi Omega, was won in the fall of 1916 by that chapter itself.

In previous years the Christian Guild has followed various policies of activity, some of them being the holding of devotional meetings, of meetings for the study of the Bible, or of meetings which were addressed by different lecturers on religious subjects. This year the Guild has adopted a policy essentially different from any of these. The time of the members has been spent in making surgical dressings, thus applying energy and effort to the practical rather than the theoretical, for the time being. The work has been carried on under the auspices of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, and, dues for the Guild having been abolished for the current year, small assessments were made to cover the slight expense incurred. Later, an informal dance was held to raise money for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the surgical dressings work.

Hence, the role of the Christian Guild may be said to have been that of Applied Christianity during the past college year in contradistinction to its subjective work of the years before.

During the year 1915-1916 a branch of the College Equal Suffrage League was formed at Jackson College. Those undergraduate students who were interested in founding it were assisted by Mrs. Ruth Sibley Haskell, '06, an officer of the National College Equal Suffrage League. Since Mrs. Haskell was at the time doing graduate work at the college, the group was largely under her guidance throughout this first year of its existence. The object of formation was to acquaint the students of Jackson with all phases of the suffrage questions—their rise, growth and possible results—that they might better define their own opinions as for or against the movement.

In the fall of 1916, members of the Jackson Branch assisted at the fair held at the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston by the Boston branch of the National League. Later in the year, lectures were given at the Hill—one by a suffrage speaker and one by an advocate of anti-suffrage. Aside from this the active work of the branch has, of necessity, been restricted. Its chief contribution to the life of the college has been in the fact that such an organization has made for itself a place on the Hill, and it remains for the "Younger Set" to strengthen its position, to foster its aims, and furthermore, to see to it that its "constitution" is never "undermined."

Jackson Day, observed late in May of each college year, has the twofold purpose of bringing back to the college those who have graduated and of bringing prospective Jacksonites to the Hill.

At first, a day was set apart, tentatively for the observance of the creation of Jackson College in the spring of 1910, but it has since gained in importance, till Jackson—past, present and future—looks forward to it as one of the red-letter days of the college year.

Early in the afternoon the Alumnae Association holds its semi-annual meeting, after which all the visitors of the day are entertained by Jackson. Sometimes the entertainment has taken the form of an indoor dramatic presentation, at others that of a pageant, and last year an Elizabethan Festival was given on the campus. This year national conditions require that elaborate preparations be abolished, and an informal gathering of the “clans” takes the place of more pretentious celebration. Following the joys of the afternoon, the guests of Jackson are entertained in Metcalf Hall at a luncheon at which the students are again the hostesses, and finally the whole company adjourns to the Jackson Gymnasium for an informal dance.

Athletics play a very important part in Jackson College life. With a finely equipped gymnasium and Miss Murray's efficient leadership, results compare very favorably indeed with those of much larger institutions. The sports directed by the Jackson Athletic Association are Tennis Singles, Basketball and Track for major sports, and the Flag Hunt, Tennis Doubles and Field Hockey for the minor sports. All these, except Tennis, are interclass contests. Regular gymnasium work is required during the Freshman and Sophomore years. A class in Aesthetic Dancing is held for those who do not care to take up Basketball. The rivalry between the Sophomores and Freshmen begins with the Flag Hunt soon after Christmas vacation, during which contest the Sophs may be seen scurrying about, armed with weapons befitting a class in manual training. Basketball and Track follow, deciding whether or not the Freshmen shall be given their flags. Field Hockey is in its infancy at Jackson, having this year been made a minor sport. It, however, has "bullied off" so well that it will undoubtedly soon take its place with the major sports.

Review of the 1917 Season

RUTH M. ROBINSON, '19 Manager

Attracted by the variety of events, many Jackson students respond each spring to the summons for Track practice. The Track events are Vaulting, Shot Put, Running High Jump, Hop-Step-and-Jump, Rope Climb, Rope High Jump and Potato Race.

The 1917 Meet, which was held April 12th, was a record breaker. Two Juniors, eleven Sophomores, and nineteen Freshmen took part. In the first event, Vaulting, Isabelle Worth, '20, captured first place, scoring five points for the Freshmen. She vaulted 4 ft. 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. Ruth Robinson, '19, smashed a record by putting the shot 26 ft. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ in. Having thus distinguished herself she proceeded to break the record in Running High Jump. In this event, she found more opposition, tying with Dorothea Cunningham, '20, at 3 ft. 11 in. A try-out for the final record is to be held later in the year. Dorothea Cunningham, '20, overstepped in the next event, breaking the Hop-Step-and-Jump record of 26 ft. 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ in. by 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. Hilda Hinckley, '19, hopped in for second place. Of the aspirants essaying to reach heights "hitherto unclumb," Marion Symmes, '20, was the most successful, though she touched the beam 3 $\frac{2}{5}$ sec. too late to break the 5 $\frac{2}{5}$ sec. record established several years ago. In the Rope High Jump, the new and most popular event, Katherine Briggs, '18, broke the record she established last year by going over the bar at the 5 ft. 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ in. mark. Marion Symmes, who took second place in this event, did some sensational jumping. She and Marian Peirce, '20, furnished the laughs for the evening. The Meet finished with the Potato Race, in which Isabelle Worth, '20, succeeded in breaking the record by caging the "spuds" in 25 sec., and was so closely followed by Margaret Yerrinton, '19, that the latter was awarded her numerals.

The Announcer reported 8 points for the Juniors, 19 for the Sophomores and credited the Freshmen with 44. Isabelle Worth, '20, did the best individual work, winning 13 points for her class. For the Freshmen the results of the meet clinched the winning of their flags. Taken altogether it was the best Track meet Jackson has ever seen.

Review of the Season

DOROTHY PEASE, '17

Manager

Basketball is the most popular sport at Jackson. Despite the fact that the enthusiasts who make the class squad are obliged to say their prayers at ten o'clock every night and their enjoyment of P. & S.'s is somewhat limited, it is entered into enthusiastically by many. This season's games were started on March 13th when the Seniors played their sister class, and, despite the excellent team work of the nineteeners, the '17 team was again able to say that it had never been defeated. The score was 23 to 12. The following evening the Juniors played the Freshmen and, though the 1918 forwards did some very sure shooting, the Freshmen defeated them by a score of 38 to 23. The siege between the Sophomores and Freshmen proved to be the closest game of the season. For some time the nineteeners were in the lead; and then a rally by the Freshmen caused the score to see-saw back and forth, finally ending in another victory for the Freshmen. The final score was 27 to 24, and counted a point for the Freshmen toward winning their flags.

1920 Championship Team

SLAUGHTER PHILLIPS CUNNINGHAM
WALKER WILDE BRAINARD

On March 27th the Seniors met the Freshmen in the final contest of the season. From the very start it was a hard fought contest, the Seniors especially putting up a determined fight. It proved, however, to be a Waterloo for the 1917 team, and the former championship six were defeated for the first time in their history, by a score of 25 to 18. The work of Marian Trott, 17, as center, and Dorothea Cunningham, '20, the Freshman forward and Captain, deserves special mention.

Review of the Season

BEULAH S. TILLOTSON, '19 Manager

Tennis, in which for the past three years interest has been steadily increasing, is one of the three major sports at Jackson. Each season more emphasis has been placed upon it until it now receives serious consideration and is participated in by about thirty students.

ELIZABETH SARGENT, '18
Champion of Tennis Singles Tournament

Eighteen girls were out for the Singles Tournament in the fall. The field was clear, all former champions having left college. After the first matches were played off, the contests became very close and interest grew keen. Especially interesting was the match between Doris Wilde, '20 and Mary Slaughter, '20, in which the former won. Those playing in the two matches before the finals were Jane Davies, '18, vs. Grace Lewis, '18, and Elizabeth Sargent, '18, vs. Doris Wilde, '20. The winners, hence the contestants in the finals, were Jane Davies and Elizabeth Sargent. It is interesting to note that since entering college these two have always played as partners in the Doubles Tournaments.

The final match, which took place late in November, was a heated contest for all concerned except the referee, who had to engage in a game all her own to keep from freezing. The spectators fared better, for between the excitement of the game, a fire at Teele Square, and a spectacular football game (in which several Tufts men and an automobile—to ford the puddles—was engaged), they managed to keep comfortable. During the first of the game Miss Sargent took the lead, winning the first set with a score of 6-2. She also won the first game of the second set, but at this juncture Miss Davies rallied and, taking the next six games, won the set. The final clash was extremely close, the contestants winning alternately until the score stood 3 all. Miss Sargent's playing grew steadily swift and sure and resulted in three successive games in her favor. She was declared the winner of the match and of the Tournament.

Winners in the Doubles Tournament are awarded appropriate watch fobs, and their names are inscribed on the loving cup at Miner Hall, while the winner of the Singles Tournament is awarded the "J".

Coach Whelan

COACH WHELAN

Much of the success of the Tufts football team both in the present and in the past has been due in a large measure to the efficient coaching of Dr. Charles Whelan, (M) '05.

Dr. Whelan, himself a gridiron star in his college days, graduated from Dartmouth College in 1901. While at Hanover, he was for four years on the big Green football team; and though weighing only 160 pounds he earned a position on the eleven by his fight, gameness and stamina. Of such versatility was he, that he alternated at both end and halfback, proving a star in both positions.

After graduating from Dartmouth, Dr. Whelan entered the Tufts Medical School and graduated in 1905. Two years later he was appointed coach of the Tufts eleven. From 1907 till 1909 he worked unceasingly to turn out a winning eleven, but his efforts bore no fruit and he left off coaching in 1909. For two years Tufts football affairs were in a chaotic state, and in 1911 the college authorities summoned "Doc" Whelan back to steer the Tufts football team to calm waters. That year marks the rejuvenation of the football team, and from that date until the present Tufts rise in the football world has been startling and her football teams now rank with those of the leading universities and colleges of the country.

A great part of this success is due to Coach Whelan and his methods of teaching men how to play the game. His powerful eleven of last season will long be remembered by all football followers, and the intricate and trick plays were a revelation to all who witnessed them. "Doc" is an exponent of the western style of football and has used it with much success at Tufts. He relies a great deal on speedy and shifty men to make this method of play a success and is truly a wizard at turning out such men.

Review of the 1916 Season

For the first time since 1875, a Tufts football team defeated Harvard. The victory was well deserved, clean cut and decisive, the superiority of the Tufts men being well recognized by all sport followers. At the start of the 1916 season many were somewhat skeptical of success, on account of the difficult schedule that had been arranged. The most formidable teams in the East were listed on the schedule, the first two games being with Harvard and Princeton on successive Saturdays.

Coach Whelan plunged into his work with unfailing energy and unlimited zeal. He had a veteran team to work with and in addition he had a large squad of men who were well accustomed to his style of coaching. For two weeks before the Harvard game, the men were drilled with the idea of perfecting team-work, a prime essential in the Tufts style of play. The fundamentals of the game were imparted to the men by coaches well versed in rudimentary football.

The opening game of the season found Tufts ready and eager to meet the Harvard team. Trained to the minute and equipped with a good football knowledge, the Tufts team invaded Soldier's Field, full of "pep" and confidence. The start of the game found the "White-helmeted" team stage-struck, and their play was loose and weird. As a result, Harvard made their only score of the day when Robinson kicked a field goal from the 25-yard line. From this time on, Harvard was on the defensive a greater part of the time. Playing a dazzling forward-pass game and showing open-play football that was a revelation to the spectators, the Brown and Blue team swept the Crimson-jerseyed players off their feet. The Tufts score came in the early part of the fourth period when Doane went over the line for a touchdown. The ball was in Harvard territory practically all the time and it was only through bad breaks that the score was not higher. When time was called, the Tufts team walked off the field with a 7 to 3 victory. Each man played a sterling game, but the work of Captain Wescott, Doane, Brown, Jochim and

"MITCH"

"POT"

Drummey was of such a calibre that each man deserves a shining star against his name.

The next Saturday the team journeyed to Princeton and was defeated by a 3 to 0 score. The score was made by Tibbott, who dropped a field goal from the 45-yard line with less than three minutes to play. This score marked the culmination of one of the hardest fought games ever played at Princeton. The Tufts team battled splendidly and bravely, the work of the line being especially commendable. Although losers, the Tufts team showed a wonderful spirit of fight and a never-say-die attitude.

The third game brought the strong Boston College team to the Oval. Coming prepared with special plays to defeat the "White-helmeted team," the Maroon and Gold eleven put up a stiff struggle. Neither team scored in the first half, but the second half saw a reversal of form on the part of the Tufts team, resulting in a 13 to 0 victory for the Brown and Blue. The victory was, in a large measure, offset by the crippling of Drummey, the brainy quarterback, the loss of whom left a big gap to fill.

The first intersectional game of the year came when Tufts journeyed to Indianapolis on October 28th to meet Indiana University. The game had been eagerly looked forward to by the Westerners and a crowd of 35,000 was on hand to witness the contest. The Hoosiers used the same style of play as the Tufts team and the result was a hard fought and thrilling game. Neither team scored in the first half, but after a bitterly contested second half, Tufts emerged with two touchdowns and two goals from touchdowns and a 12 to 10 victory.

Although slightly battered and bruised from the Indiana game, the team displayed a remarkable brand of football against the "Mass Aggies" on the following Saturday, in which the forward pass game excelled. Time and again the aerial route was used for long gains, many of which bordered on the sensational. The work of Brown and Doane was the special feature of this game. The Aggie team put up a good defensive game, but weakened in the second half, enabling Tufts to apply a 28 to 0 coat of whitewash.

"EDDIE"

"BROWNY"

The season was more than half over and the team had made an enviable record when it suffered a heart-breaking defeat. Tufts men already had visions of a team that would be a claimant for championship honors, when a crushing blow was administered. The eleven traveled to Springfield to meet the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College and received a setback when defeated by a score of 13 to 6. At the very start of the game it was evident that Tufts was in for a bad day. Play after play was squelched, in many cases with a loss, and this fact, coupled with bad breaks, gave Tufts its first real defeat of the season. Even more costly than defeat were the injuries to valuable players, and a dark cloud hovered over the football horizon.

The next Saturday saw a rift in the cloud when Bowdoin visited the Oval. Fully recovered from the defeat, the team showed a remarkable amount of confidence and fight. Greatly strengthened by the addition of Drummey, the eleven ran like clockwork and soon piled up a large score on Bowdoin, the final being 26 to 0.

The last game of the season was with Syracuse at Fenway Park, and the result of this contest was a bitter pill for Tufts men to swallow. Hoping to end the season in a blaze of glory by conquering Syracuse, the eleven went into the contest determined to win. From start to finish the contest see-sawed back and forth. Rays of joy and confidence continually penetrated the Tufts supporters, only to be turned to gloom by a bad break, for during the entire game practically every break went to the visitors. Greatly outweighed, the team fought with the same vim and dash that sent Harvard to defeat and it was not till the final whistle was blown that Syracuse was sure of victory. The 20 to 13 score represents a game that was a great one to win and a hard one to lose, Syracuse richly deserving her full share of honors.

This game marked the close of a most successful season, and to Coach Whelan and Captain Westcott great credit and praise are due.

COACH SLATTERY

Coach Slattery

In the spring of 1914 a wonder-worker stirred a baseball corps to life; in 1915, the wonder-worker whipped a baseball squad into such condition and form that it went through the most successful season in years; in 1916 a team which will march down to posterity flying the banners of victory was the handiwork of this same wonder-worker; in 1917, Tufts men breathed a sigh of relief when the wonder-worker again directed the destinies of the team.

The wonder-worker was Jack Slattery—the man who applied the pulmotor to Tufts baseball.

To turn out a team in 1915 which led all American colleges in fielding, batting, and percentage of games won and lost; to secure in that year, eight of the nine positions on the All-American

Nine; to develop a team in 1916 which ran a dead heat with Harvard and Columbia for the intercollegiate championship; to train his men in that year so that they held the college records in batting, fielding, and base-running; to secure six positions on the All-American Nine of 1916—

That is the record of John T. Slattery, Tufts, '02.

Slattery, an ideal coach for the Brown and Blue because he had soaked in the Tufts pep while in college, and baseball craftiness while in the major leagues, had a wealth of diamond experience when he took charge. He caught at Fordham, but was ineligible to play for Tufts when he matriculated at the Dental School in '00. The formation of the American League took place shortly after he had finished college, and he soon joined the Boston Red Sox. Under Lou Criger, famous Sox catcher, he learned the art of backstopping and continued his professional experience through the International League and the American Association. In 1902, as a member of the White Sox, he took part in the fifteen-game World Series between the White Sox and the Cubs.

“Jack’s” work on the Tufts diamond has been a source of great admiration and respect for him, and a pleasure to all who have witnessed the products which have been turned out under his guidance.

Review of the 1916 Season

Time was when the Tufts baseball teams served as appetizers for the big college nines, appetizers which were to be thoroughly shaken and then taken one week before an important game. Those were the days when an easy spot on a baseball schedule was indicated by a Brown and Blue mark. Times have changed and now a Tufts game is indicated by a Black and Blue spot for the opposing nines.

Experts, after gravely noting the fact that Tufts had won eighteen games and had lost but two in 1916, decided that the Brown and Blue had tied with Harvard and Columbia for the collegiate championship. Each editor wrote a qualifying paragraph, however, stating that there could be little doubt but that a series of games among the three would find the Tufts team a winner. In addition, every expert admitted that the Tufts nine, by making a hard trip through the South, playing against teams which had at least a month's additional outdoor work, and returning without meeting a single defeat, had established a record which would probably never be equalled.

Six players on the Tufts nine of 1916 were chosen for the All-American team; in batting and fielding records, Tufts led all rivals; Captain Stafford stole twice as many bases as his nearest competitor, who was Abbott of Harvard; Leland, captain of this year's team, was the premier batsman of the college players with the extraordinary percentage of .437.

THE OLD CAMPUS—FOR EARLY PRACTICE

The two defeats experienced by Tufts during the season were both by the margin of one run. Bowdoin and Harvard both conquered Tufts. Bowdoin defeated Tufts fairly and squarely, but the Harvard game came to a most unsatisfactory ending after eleven innings of exciting play. So wretched was the umpiring of that game that, after the tying and winning runs had been forced in by four consecutive bases on balls, the Harvard men voluntarily agreed to call off all bets which had been made on the game.

The result of the early season invasion of the South was unique. With the Southerners having the advantage of an early start, Tufts swept victoriously from diamond to diamond and created a sensation everywhere. Georgetown, Annapolis, West Point, and Catholic University, the latter the conqueror of Harvard, fell before Tufts. The season ended with the Class Day game when Dartmouth proved an easy victim for the second time in the season. Rain prevented several scheduled games, notably the annual Yale game, which the Tufts team was anxious to win for the second consecutive year.

Last winter it was thought that there remained nothing but the ruins of the world-beating team of 1916. But Coach Slattery rose to the occasion, and a Tufts team worthy of its predecessors was the result. When Captain Leland and Coach Slattery called for candidates last February, the material which turned out was so indicative of a winning team that the losses by graduation in 1916 proved to be no cause for worry. The determination was to build up a team which would be equal to if not better than that of the 1916 season.

Krepps and Whittaker were gone from the pitching staff. Dan Keefe, Freshman wonder, was a victim of the cradle-robbing Connie Mack who hurried him off in March to the training camp of the Athletics. Fritz O'Marra, he of the trusty left arm and sinister curves, remained, and with him was promising Freshman material and semi-experienced upper-class candidates.

Red Carroll was gone from behind the bat, but in his place was Owen Keefe, a Freshman whose work has been of the highest order. Trustworthy Wallie Volk was no longer at first base, but a wealth of material was on hand for his position. The dashing Stafford had deserted the key-stone sack, and his place was filled by the experienced Saunders who was shifted from his regular position at shortstop. Ford, the stripling who last year occupied a utility berth, went to the shortfield. Reagan, a stocky Freshman who came from Dean Academy and who says little but carries a heavy bat, filled Armstrong's shoes at third-base to overflowing.

Captain Leland was back to play right-field. Ollie Wescott was scheduled for his customary place in the outer-defense. The nucleus was there. The winning team was practically assured. But could it rank with the team of 1916? There was a man's task, —to equal the team of Sixteen.

Tufts and the Collegiate Baseball Championship of 1916

Outlook, July 5, 1916

"It is useless to try to pick the champion of the college baseball teams of the East. Columbia, Tufts, Syracuse and Harvard were the leaders and the supporters of all of them have ample reason to be proud. Standing out among the really remarkable achievements of the year are the pitching of George Smith of Columbia and Whittaker of Tufts and the heavy batting of the Tufts boys. But the batting of Leland was little short of phenomenal."

Boston Post

"Keep your money," said one Harvard man to the Tufts chap he had wagered with. "Harvard didn't win the game; the umpire did. It would be plain robbery to collect from you on it."

Boston Globe

The Harvard Crimson made the mistake of calling the game with Tufts the "title-game." Soft-pedal on claiming a championship. College baseball championships are mythical in these days, but it seems that many followers of the game still take stock in them. No baseball title was settled on Soldiers' Field, Tuesday, the day of the Harvard-Tufts game, and he would be a rash man who would predict that Harvard could beat Tufts in a series of games.

Review of the 1916 Season

The season of 1916-1917 may be considered an important one in the history of track athletics at Tufts, not because it was featured by extraordinary success, but because it was marked by a radical change in coaching policy which is expected to make a decided increase in the interest in this branch of sport. In contrast to the former policy of intensive coaching of a few of the recognized stars, a successful attempt was made to develop new material by a series of inter-dormitory and inter-fraternity meets. The results of this attempt will undoubtedly show themselves in the work of the squad next year.

The 1915-1916 team, under the leadership of Kinsly B. Thorndike, '16, took part in two dual meets and entered a team in the New England Inter-Collegiate Meet. In the first of these meets, Tufts defeated Rhode Island State, 64 to 62, and in the second lost to Holy Cross, 90 to 36. Capt. Thorndike won third place in the inter-collegiates, and Tufts was limited to this single point when Maurice M. Tyler, '18, fell and sustained severe injuries at a time when he was leading in a heat in the hurdles. The work of Tyler had been one of the features of the year and his running stamped him as being the best hurdler developed at Tufts. In the meet with Rhode Island State he shattered the records in both the high and low hurdles, but because he was favored by the wind they were not allowed. Under normal weather conditions, however, Tyler duplicated his work in the Holy Cross Meet, and his record-breaking times of 16 seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles and of 26 seconds in the 220-yard low hurdles were allowed.

James H. Penaligan, '17, who has been consistently successful in the sprints since entering college, was captain of the 1916-1917 team. Owing to illness he was obliged to withdraw from college in the spring, and Tyler was elected to fill the vacancy. T. J. Connor, former coach of track at Lehigh, was placed in charge of the team and introduced his system of building for the future. For veteran material he had Penaligan, '17, and Hudson, '19, in the sprints; Fallon, '19, and Merritt, '17, in the middle-distances;

COACH CONNOR

TYLER IN THE LEAD

Randall, D., '19, and Kimball, '19, in the distances; Tyler, '18, in the hurdles; Beacham, '19, in the shot-put; and Miller, '18, in the pole-vault. Through the inter-dormitory and inter-fraternity meets promising material was uncovered among the Freshmen and among the upper-classmen who had not tried out for the varsity team.

The score of the Rhode Island Meet on May 13, 1916, is as follows:

Review of the 1916 Season

The 1916 tennis season can hardly be rated as a successful one, as a record of five defeats in five scheduled matches shows. At the start of the season it was expected that as far as victories were concerned, but little showing could be made; but what was contemplated was the building up of a team for the next season. With this idea in view, a schedule of games was arranged that would bring about this result.

The first match of the season was with Technology in which Tufts was whitewashed with a score of 6 to 0. Two days later Crocker and Kraus entered the New England Intercollegiates, and although not winners, they put up stiff fights and showed good form. The following match was with the Harvard second team and resulted in an easy victory for Harvard by a 5 to 1 score. The Tufts point winner was Crocker. On Junior Day the Alumni team sent the Varsity to defeat by a 5 to 1 score and once again the point winner was Crocker. The last match of the season was with Holy Cross and victory perched on their shoulders by a 5 to 1 score. Tufts lone point was scored in the doubles by Lane and Lee. Owing to illness, Crocker was unable to play, thus severely handicapping the Tufts team.

The tennis season brought out a sure point winner this year in Crocker, who showed rare form in the matches in which he participated. The 1917 season will probably prove the best in recent years. For veteran material there is Crocker, Kraus, Lane, Winer and Norton. The fall tournament brought out valuable material, the most prominent being Collinson, '20, runner-up in the New England Interscholastic Tournament; Mullen, '20, champion of Huntington School; Rockwell, '20, Captain of the Somerville High School team; and Smith (D), '19, runner-up in the Rhode Island Interscholastics, who has played in several large tournaments. Additional courts last year and this year bring the total to four and, if the coming season is successful, more will be added.

Review of the 1916-1917 Season

Despite injuries which occurred at critical moments, the Tufts wrestling team was able to make a creditable showing in the season of 1916-1917. The team, which was captained by Samuel Ruggeri and coached by Dr. Burnett, broke even in its two matches with the strong Boston Y. M. C. A. team, scored a decisive win over M. I. T., and lost to Brown and Andover in two hard battles.

The fact that new men had to be developed in several classes hampered the team in getting under way at the beginning of the season. Captain Ruggeri in the 158-pound class, May in the 125-pound class, and Given, who was elected manager but resigned in mid-season, in the 145-pound class, were the only veterans. Genest became a clever but unlucky wrestler in the 115-pound class before the season was over, and Morgan, a Freshman, showed promise of developing into a heavyweight who, with more experience, would become a strong matman.

The 135-pound class, which contained several candidates of almost equal ability, was the hoodoo class of the year. Kimball and Cahill suffered from a series of injuries, and Waage was barred from the intercollegiates because of scholarship difficulties. Captain Ruggeri, by winning third place in the intercollegiate tournament, scored the solitary Tufts point in this meet.

The season opened with two meets with the Boston Y. M. C. A. In the first meet, Tufts, with several regulars unable to compete, lost by the score of 30 to 10. In a return match at Goddard Gymnasium, Tufts won by taking three of the five matches. This match was featured by the victory of Captain Ruggeri over Warren, the national Y. M. C. A. heavyweight champion. Ruggeri, outweighed by 17 pounds, lasted the seven minutes and, under a previous agreement, was awarded the victory.

It was Captain Ruggeri's brilliant work against Technology that enabled Tufts to secure a victory in this match. The Tufts team won by 14-7, because its captain secured falls over his opponents in the 158-pound and in the heavyweight class.

The summaries of three of the season's meets are as follows:

Tuftonia's Day

E. W. Hayes, '16

Steady and true, rush along, Brown and Blue, raise a mighty score today. Fearless tear down the field and never yield! Brown and Blue, Brown and Blue, for aye! Hammer them hard, boys, and break thro' their guard; that is old Tuftonia's way; and our glorious banner once again will wave o'er Tuftonia's Day. T-U-F-T-S! Hurrah! Hurrah! for the dear old Brown and Blue.

Up on the Hill tonight all will be gay. Victorious in the fight, we'll raise the standard of Dear Old Tufts to glory! Pile up the mighty score, it's bound to soar—now, one goal more! Nothing can stop us, it's Tuftonia's Day.

Push it right thro', boys, we're rooting for you! Now, then, smash their guard once more! See, they are losing fast, their line can't last, Brown and Blue boys, forevermore! Right thro' the hole, lads, and make it a goal in the good old-fashioned way, and we'll all turn out with lusty shout, to honor Tuftonia's Day.

E. W. HAYES, '16

Fight, Tufts, Fight!

E. W. Hayes, '16

Boys in Brown and Blue, we're right behind you, put the game on ice; now, boys, play hard all the time, boys, never let them find you, don't let them gain a yard. We're bound to win. Now chase them down the field and score, boys, buck them with all your might! Now hold them—it's a cinch—don't let them gain an inch! Push that pigskin down the field and fight, Tufts, fight!

Fight, fight, fight, till that last white line is made. Down the field, it's a goal! It's a goal! Fight, fight, fight, rush along unafraid, now you'll make it—thro' that hole! Alma Mater, the dear Brown and Blue, hopes in you, boys, alway, so fight you must and will, for the College on the Hill, and bring home a win today.

Every man, now hold them for the down, lads. All together, Tufts, now watch the ball. Play the game and do that bunch up brown, lads. Don't let them thro' at all! The Chapel Bell is bound to toll the score at sundown. Jumbo'll be glad tonight. So hold, line! like a wall—go on, backs! Rush that ball—push that pigskin down the field and fight, Tufts, fight!

WEST HALL

Final Game for Championship Won by

WEST HALL—SCORE 12-11

During the spring each fraternity and each dormitory is represented by a baseball team in the intramural league, the object being to develop new material that might otherwise be neglected. The champions of the two leagues meet to decide the championship, and the name of the winners is put on the Foss Cup.

The present season saw many close and thrilling games in which the umpire played a large part. Many games were played in which skilled and versatile men took part, said men playing in the outfield, infield, as a pitcher and even as a catcher, and being a "star (?)" at every position. Such scores as 25 to 3, 15 to 2, 11 to 0, etc., illustrate the closeness of some of the games.

The winners in the intrafraternity and dormitory leagues both went through the season without a defeat. The final game was thrilling, to say the least. For nine innings the teams battled for victory. The first half of the ninth found Zeta Psi in the lead by a score of 11 to 7, but West Hall, by a terrific batting rally in the last half of the ninth, scored 5 runs and won the game by a margin of one run.

As a reward for victory, West Hall together with the names of Nellis and Malone, captain and manager respectively, will be placed on the Foss Cup. Former winnings have been, East Hall three times, and one each by Alpha Tau Omega, Commons Club, Theta Delta Chi, and Zeta Psi.

The most recent addition to the list of college organizations is the Tufts College Rifle Club, organized in October, 1916, by members of the faculty and student body who were interested in marksmanship. The club is a branch of the National Rifle Association of America and has for its object the encouragement of military rifle and pistol shooting.

The club proved popular from the very start and 100 members were enrolled soon after its organization. Members practiced during the winter on a 25-yard range in the Gymnasium and at the Bay State School of Musketry, but the work waned slightly when more active measures for preparedness took up the time of the members.

As the association is to a certain extent under the jurisdiction of the War Department, the practice has been done with military rifles. For indoor work, 22 caliber Winchesters have been used, but for the outdoor work the Krag rifles have been used by the members. Arrangements have been made for extensive outdoor shooting, to be done mostly on the 500-, 600- and 800-yard ranges at the Wakefield Rifle Range.

The Fight

The Hour

On May 13, 1916, the Freshmen four from M. I. T. defeated the Tufts men in the first race of the year. On May 17th, the Tufts freshies again lost to the Tech four. The third race, held May 19th, between eights representing Tufts, Noble and Greenough, Technology and the Boston Interscholastics, was won by Noble and Greenough, Tufts coming in third. In the fourth race, the Tufts freshies easily defeated the Cambridge Latin four.

Introductory

"Tufts To-Day == Tufts For Aye." This is the spirit with which Tufts extends a most hearty welcome to those who are now to enter upon four years of college life at the Hill. In the Ivy Book you will find valuable information to direct you in the early part of your course, and an embodiment of the traditions and customs of the College, which you can enrich with plenty of real Tufts Spirit. To you as college men have come the advantages which only one experiencing undergraduate life can fully appreciate, and with these come opportunities to make lasting friendships and acquaintances, to prepare a solid foundation for a life work, and, above all, to show that you, as Tufts men, are worthy of her aims and ideals of democracy and friendship.

The 1916-1917 Season

“BUT still, however, on the other hand, don’t you know, we have come to the conclusion that from past experience, as circumstances show,” we have quite a Musical Club! Not only is our club the best in the East, but this year’s organization is the “best ever.” We don’t have to prove it—we admit it.

The whole season has been one of the “best ever” events. First of all came the Malden public rehearsal, pronounced by the audience as excellent. That Christmas trip, too—even Charlie Stanton, a four years’ veteran, starring this year as Champion Sleighrider, agreed it was the finest trip he has taken. Nashua, Barre, Burlington, Waterbury, Northfield, Claremont, Bellows Falls and Lowell—but especially Burlington—were all stormed and captured with little difficulty.

Local concerts in Boston and vicinity, coming twice a week, have been full of thrills, and although “Eddie” Burns, “Cliff” Geer, “Jumbo” Rockwell and Carl Newton have been general favorites, team-work has been the prominent feature. The Mandolin Club under “Ted” Messer has maintained its usual high excellence. Leonard Rice, too, has gone big everywhere.

Other trips taken include Northampton, Gilbertville, Fairhaven, Attleboro and Providence, with a wonderful spring trip through Western Massachusetts, New York State, and New Jersey. As Graduate Manager, Brooks, ’15, has lightened the burdens of Manager Geer, incidentally securing guarantees large enough to finance the trips, it looks as though a sizeable dividend would be declared at the close of the season.

It’s fun to go on one of those trips—special car, you know, “La Parisienne,” “Breezy Stories,” and poker games with Lane as banker (gentlemen’s games, you understand)!

Since the foundation of the Forum in 1913, there has been shown a marked interest in debating. The object of the Forum is to give practice in debating and parliamentary law. Special rooms have been provided for the use of members and the library is almost completed. Weekly debates and discussions are held in preparation for the triangular debates between Bates, Clark and Tufts.

Perhaps the most influential factor in the building of the Forum has been Professor Albert H. Gilmer of the English Department. Through his experience on the speaking platform, and by his constructive criticism, he has piloted the Forum with much success.

The Tufts Wireless Society was founded in the spring of 1911 with a charter membership of eight.

At present, The Tufts Wireless Society has the distinction of possessing one of the most powerful stations in New England, if not in the United States. Its quarters are now in the building of the American Radio and Research Corporation, on the north slope of the Hill. The tower is 305 feet high, and the instruments are of the most modern type.

FOREIGN SERVICE CLUB

Purpose

THE Tufts Foreign Service Club, inaugurated in 1914 under the direction of Prof. A. I. Andrews of the Dept. of History and Public Law, consists of thirty members. A new era in the economic development of the United States marked its formation. The industrial leadership of the world, forced upon the United States by the European war, and our expanding foreign business, justify its present existence. To maintain this leadership and to increase our foreign business, the Foreign Service Club has endeavored to equip students with information on the business methods and customs of foreign countries. All material and available literature are placed at the disposal of the club's members. The prospects and requirements for summer and permanent positions in the employ of the government or of large business firms are obtained through communications and addresses from men prominent in the development of foreign commerce.

Membership is open to any undergraduate who contemplates a foreign service career with the government or with large business firms.

The Republican Club at Tufts, being very democratic in character, was a huge success and possessed more enthusiasm per square inch than most clubs enjoy in a lifetime.

Senator Lodge was obtained as a speaker in the Chapel. In the big Boston torchlight parade, Tufts formed a division ahead of Harvard and had in line one of the largest contingents which has ever marched behind a Tufts banner. The regalia worn consisted of the famous Tufts fez and the brown and blue sash. In the stump-speaking tour through Medford, speeches were given in the principal squares by Eaton, '17, Terhune, '17, and Representative Morrison, a candidate for re-election in that district.

Always in touch with the Democratic leaders, the Tufts organization made several dashes into the campaign field. A member of the Tufts auto party—the student orator, Edward Casey—made speeches in Quincy, Weymouth, and surrounding towns. With “Wilson” signs flying, the Tufts Democrats directed their autos into the larger towns; Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill received brief visits. An effective action at Tufts was the presentation of Professor Bliss Perry, of Harvard, as a speaker in Goddard Chapel.

The Tufts Menorah Society was first instituted at Tufts at the beginning of the academic year of 1913. The purpose of the society is well expressed in the motto which it has for its guide, namely: "The Study and Advancement of Hebraic Culture and Ideals." Prominent men, such as Chancellor Henry Hurwitz, of New York, President I. L. Sharfman of the University of Michigan, and Vice-President Rosalind Manges of the University of California, have appeared before the Society.

Practically every leading college in the country has a Menorah Society, a fact which is a significant one to the present and past workers of this movement.

EVENTS

Impressions

“WHY, man alive! we’re the best class in Tufts.”

Such was the vociferous outburst of Willie Pea Green, freshie extraordinaire from down in Maine, at the close of the biggest Tufts Night in the history of the college. The 1920 newcomers had been given a royal welcome, a real taste of Tufts spirit, and a last long cheer.

It was impossible that the effect could be otherwise, with the entire student-body gathered in the Gymnasium; with Eddie Burns leading the cheering, and with Professors Ashley and Lewis, “Oppie” Peirce, “Charlie” Gott, and “Doc” Perkins praising the freshmen. Then there is Prexy’s address which is welcomed with a storm of applause that threatens to be perpetual.

Tufts Night is a “get-together” night for both graduates and undergraduates to introduce the freshman into his new life at the Hill. It is the night when men of the outside world again become “one of the boys,” and when all marks of distinction are leveled by the wonderful spirit which permeates the whole assembly.

HAVE you ever been present at one of those Tower Cross banquets to a Tufts athletic team in Goddard Gym? No? Well, you've missed one of the biggest things in your college course.

It is a custom established by Tower Cross, Senior Honorary Society, to banquet the football and baseball teams in the fall and spring at the close of their respective seasons. Tower Cross is the most important society at Tufts, the members of which are picked from the men of each Senior class who are doing things worth while for their Alma Mater. A committee runs these banquets, the price of which is very moderate and the fare good. The speeches, cheers, and general goodfellowship make each occasion one long to be remembered.

Especially for the past few years have these functions been events of red-letter importance. The recent banquet to the football team was particularly to commemorate "the team that beat Harvard 7-3." In the spring of 1916 the Champion College baseball team of the country was dined.

Another interesting feature connected with these affairs is the election of the captain for the next year's team. While the "T" men of the past season retire to the dressing-room for that purpose, the ever-willing Glee Club entertains. Suddenly a distant cheer is heard announcing the result of the choice. Then come speeches from the coaches, captains—new and old—the managers, and, mingled with all, prolonged cheers.

Banquets given by Tower Cross are strictly temperate affairs. A caterer is secured, tables are set up on the Gym floor, and salads, meats, and ice-creams compose the repast. To the cries of "Bring on that Tom and Jerry," "We want some more rolls," "We hope you get them," etc., dusky waiters hurry about, while the building gradually fills with a dense cloud—the product of spent Fatimas, of odorous class pipes, and of 7-20-4's from the speakers' table.

Then follows the ever mysterious master of toasts, the "men with a message"—our distinguished alumni—and Eddie Burns with his "spell it out boys" and "a regular for the team." When the show is all over, "Dear Alma Mater" rings forth from hundreds of lusty throats, "Good Nights" are said, and everyone hurries back to resume the books. We have to keep off pro, you know!

CLASS-SCRAPS

The Sophomore Banquet Scrap, October 24, 1916

Following the custom of the two preceding classes, the Class of 1919 decided to hop one over on the infants and start things. As a result, the Tufts College Station saw one of the liveliest mix-ups in recent years—to be more definite, ever since the Underclass Rules Committee stuck the “War Zone Clause” in the banquet rules in order that alumni might have another “Now when I was in college—” in their vocabularies of reminiscence. Visions of “Don” McClench’s thrilling “blockade-running” are still with us, especially of his inglorious capture, but not, however, before the gallant Chevrolet had carried both officers and speakers to safety. Those Sophs who were captured proved that they were long on diplomacy if short in breath or limb. They succeeded in teaching the otherwise unintelligent Freshmen that Prof. Rockwell’s house was outside the “Zone.” The Sophs did, alas, commit one grave error in allowing their football men to get mixed up in the fight. Result:—their banquet was technically not a success.

The Freshman Banquet Scrap, November 1, 1916

At this “follow the leader” game the Freshmen proved to be no slouches; in fact they had a little on some of the previous classes when it came to making a smooth getaway. By four o’clock on the appointed afternoon, the only Freshmen left on the “Hill” were a few engineers in the drawing class at the B. P. Building. By that time “Red” Ryan with his “gang” and accompaniment of handcuffs, began to suspect there might be something wrong. Of course the scrap took the scene of all good banquet scraps—the Engineering lot—and a few Freshmen chewed dust and hemp while the majority strove successfully for the safe side of the railroad track. However, the H. C. of L. or something similar prevented enough men reaching the Westminster, and this one too was rated as unsuccessful.

The Rope Pull, November 4, 1916

The annual event with the annual result: FRESHMEN WIN.

The Bag Rush, November 27, 1916

At four by the village clock the Oval lay calm and bare in the cool November breeze. A few minutes later it was crowded with combatants and spectators. A few more still and the gun went off and the fight over those innocent looking canvas bags had begun. This time Nineteen Nineteen managed to get in a little original work, by being the first Sophomore Class to win this event since its introduction by Prexy in 1914. Like the citizens of Ancient Rome, co-eds, faculty, and upper classmen stood “thumbs down” frantically urging on the victims in the fray. At the second shot the struggle ceased and the combatants lay dead while the score of 4-2 was announced by the referees. At five by the village clock the Oval lay furrowed and worn in the cool November breeze.

ENGINEERING RECEPTION TO THE PUBLIC

IT is eight in the evening, and every Engineering building is a blaze of light. Students, friends, and lady friends are moving in slow procession through laboratories and classrooms, through powerhouse, shop and forge. Every department of the scientific school is at its best, and all the uninitiated stand open-mouthed and wide-eyed in the presence of crackling sparks, weird rays of light, whirring wheels and roaring forge. Here is a motor-boat engine—there an automobile-engine mounted by itself so we can more easily see its working parts. These machines are testing the strength of materials—iron, steel, copper, and brass; those are testing the resistance to bending in wooden and steel beams. In the shop are many machines—lathes, shapers, drills, planers, grinders, presses, and millers. In Robinson is an interesting display of apparatus and student work of the Civil Engineering Department. Down in the Hydraulics Lab the mammoth steam fire-pump is discharging a rushing, roaring stream of water. In the Steam Lab the Corliss engine is running, and in the Electric Lab the maze of wires, switches, and lamps is confusing.

To wander through the several departments on Reception Night, is to gain a broader education and a deeper insight into the mighty realm of Power.

STUDENTS of Tufts listen each year to several lectures in Goddard Chapel, lectures which stand out clear cut and distinct in memory, lectures that may influence a man's whole course of life.

One of the first speakers of the year is the Russell Lecturer; the address last October was by Dr. Marion Daniel Shutter of Minneapolis. The subject of the talk was "A Working Theory of Life." "Even if the universe were a thousand times worse than it is at present, we would assume that right thinking and right action could make it much better." "Life was made for victory, and victory will be the outcome."

George W. Nasmyth, Ph.D., Director of the World's Peace Foundation, gave a forceful talk in the interest of the World Peace Movement. He spoke first of the Philosophy of Force that so many people, the world over, have adopted from the Darwinian theory of the "Survival of the Fittest." "Darwin's message has been misinterpreted—human progress depends on mutual support, expansion of life and morals—on truth and love. For progress, all the peoples of the world must become federated—broaden their contacts and views."

Dr. Albert Fitch of Harvard spoke on the problems and results of the present war, as related to the college man and woman of today. "Morality and spirituality lag behind the scientific advances of every age; at the present time the peoples of Europe are turning from the material to the spiritual by reason of their severe suffering."

Dr. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, gave a fascinating illustrated lecture on the subject of "Air Craft in War." His pictures were of the best and his audience departed with a vivid conception of aerial warfare.

An interested group of students listened to a discussion of the journalistic problems of the present day by George D. Morris, President of the Twentieth Century Club and Editor of "The Christian Science Monitor." With his long newspaper experience to back his words, he spoke of "The Ideals of Journalism," making an appeal to men to enter the field. "Run over the list of men who have gained prominence in literature and you will find that the first chapter of their lives was devoted to journalism."

Dramatics

Review of Dramatics at Tufts

TO understand the stage of development that dramatics have attained in the present college year, a resumé of this phase of Tufts life is necessary.

Previous to 1909 there had been a few notable revivals of classic plays, including Udall's "Ralph Roister Doister," Milton's "Comus," and Dekker's "Old Fortunatus." Not until 1909, however, when the Class of 1910 produced "The Other Way," by Lewis Doane, '09, did the student body take an active interest as promoters of the drama. For this production a temporary stage was erected in the Goddard Gymnasium. In 1910, when Jackson Gymnasium was built, there was included in the plans provision for a small stage, the nucleus of our present equipment. The Three P's society was founded that same spring by four members of the Class of 1911. Its purpose is to encourage dramatic interests at Tufts and Jackson by the production of plays, and to encourage the writing of original plays by students.

When it was found that dramatics was to occupy a distinct place in Tufts life, efforts were made to secure funds in order to improve and add to the equipment of the stage. At different times the Jackson Athletic Association, the Jackson All Around Club, the Glee Club and individual classes have appropriated funds for that purpose, and Tufts men have given their services.

Thus by degrees have matters progressed until, when a complete report was given in the Tufts Weekly of May 6, 1916, an estimate of the facilities showed the valuation of the stage and properties to be not less than $2700.

Three P's is a self-perpetuating Senior Society of Tufts, under the auspices of which most of the college productions have been staged. In addition, the custom was adopted in Jackson College of having one play presented annually by each class. Later it was decided that only the Junior and Freshman classes of Jackson should display their talent in the course of a year. Since the organization in 1916 of the Masque Society in Jackson, still more interest in dramatics has been aroused.

JACKSON GYMNASIUM

Last year the Sophomore Class of Jackson departed from the old order in view of the fact that as Freshmen they had successfully presented a Shakspearean play, and on February 10th continued their good work in the play "Much Ado About Nothing."

On April 27, 1916, the Class of 1919 gave as their initial performance, Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," and thereby earned a creditable reputation early in their career.

The year 1916 called for celebration of the Shakspeare Tercentenary from many organizations, and Tufts responded with a dramatic entertainment on April 5th.

The Tufts and Jackson dramatic societies combined forces in the staging of four scenes. The first, a scene from "King Henry IV," and the second, the sleep-walking scene from "Macbeth" illustrated the characteristic Shakspearean comedy and tragedy. Following this George Bernard Shaw's "Dark Lady of the Sonnets" afforded interesting if not historically accurate glimpses of Shakspeare's life and time, and "King Shakspeare"—a Masque of Praise written by Professor A. H. Gilmer concluded the celebration of the Tercentenary.

The coming of Junior Day on May 20th afforded still further opportunity for display of the talent histrionic, and this time the result was a series of three one-act plays. Two of these—"Paul and Virginia" and "Are Your Hands Tied?" were written by James H. Rorty, '13; the third—"The Black Tie" being a serious drama by George Middleton. According to custom, these plays were repeated on May 23rd, when fond parents and others of the unsuspecting public were permitted to attend.

With this display of genius the dramatic year of the college closed, not to be re-opened until December 8, 1916, when the Fall Try-Outs of the Three P's again summoned the college public to the Gymnasium. The first of the series was "The Prize," by John Bar-gate, and following this Anton Tchekov's "The Boor." After the sarcasm of the first and the irony of the second the tension was snapped most decidedly by "Too Many Crooks"—a comic situation dramatized by E. G. Burns, '18.

The production of Percy MacKaye's "Mater" under the auspices of the Masque Society, occurred on January 27th. Though by attempting this piece of modern American drama the Masque accomplished one of its aims—that of producing a play each year—yet, financially speaking, the play was not a complete success. A repetition was scheduled for March 3rd, when accounts more than balanced.

The Semi-Finals of the Three P's took place on March 17th, when another series of three plays was given. This consisted of "Sweethearts" by W. S. Gilbert, "A Marriage Proposal" by Anton Tchekov and "French Without a Master" by Tristan Bernard. With the scope of college activities restricted for the remainder of the year, dramatic productions are an uncertain quantity in the immediate future, but as to the more remote future there should be no doubt.

JUNIOR WEEK

The Prom

MOON, young and fresh as our spirits; a soft, gentle breeze; a warm May evening! Junior Prom is here. We are drawn through a covered passage by mystic music; a second later we are in the midst of a garden,—a garden with green vines and bright flowers. A soft, mellow light blends all into the enchantment. From some hidden recess soft strains entice us onward, and we wind deeper and deeper into the maze, wholly in the power of the Dance. Cares we have none—save to whirl around and around.

Twilight blends into darkness, and two by two our friends slip away from the merry throng to wander alone where silver moonlight touches the tops of a thousand wavelets, where imagination transforms the Rez into a great lake or a mighty ocean. Hours pass as in a dream. A single silver chime gives warning that we must journey into another dream-land to awake refreshed for the activities of a new day. Junior Prom, a draught of joy, is over.

Faculty-Senior Base- ball Game

A great red sun peeps over the edge of the earth and catches "old Charlie Tuft's hill" asleep. There is a stir on the campus; the Seniors and Faculty are semi-somnambulating to an early morning ball game.

They assemble and take sides. The faculty-member with the long beard, who pitched his college to victory in '63, strives to repeat. But what chance has he! All night long he mathematically plotted the curves he would use, only to find that on this, the crucial moment, he had left his glasses at home!

1917 JUNIOR PROM

In the outfield, another member has heard the call of a rare bird and has left to find it, just as the tenth fly heads his way. Disgusted, the second baseman sits down to see what Achilles would do in such a battle. The rightfielder has already figured out a bridge that will save him many steps on his walk home, while the catcher mutters dejectedly: "It Kant be did! It Kant be did!"

And so, with the score of 49-0 in favor of the Seniors, we leave, faint with laughing and with want of breakfast.

The "Horribles"

"Heads up! Here they come!" In motley array, the "Horribles" approach. Clowns, ballet dancers, freaks of every description; costumes of every color and nationality. Here, a coffin carrying its very-much-alive-corpse; there, the "Wild Man"—"Wild" because someone is poking him with a stick. He is an aboriginee from some distant clime, and if human nature is still unchanged he will escape from his keeper only to be captured in front of Metcalf Hall and at the very feet of the Jackson maidens. There is such a variety of masquerades that the judges will certainly have difficulty in awarding the prizes.

After the parade we find ourselves watching a tennis match on the "Old Campus." Then come the fraternity spreads and an afternoon at the Oval to see the Varsity Nine cross bats with Bowdoin. After the game there is the campus promenade, the walk around the "Rez," and possibly a Freshman-Sophomore "Sing" on the "Rez" steps. By this time we are again ready to eat, and we drift with the crowd to the Goddard Gymnasium.

The Spread

The appearance of the Gym this time reminds us of a cabaret hall. Scattered here and there are small tables, appropriately decorated. Up in the balcony an orchestra is playing, and down below the clanking of dishes seems to harmonize, for we are hungry.

While you rush to the long white table, the girl gazes pitilessly, thumbs down, like the daughter of ancient Rome, rewarding with a smile of pleasure and admiration if you gain success, and sighing with impatience if you emerge late from the furious struggle. Heaping platefuls are upon that table—if there aren't, you are privileged to vent your wrath upon the waiter.

But the most enjoyable part is when you sit opposite "Her" and review the happenings of the day. It is then that you forget the chatter around you; forget that you were up late last night; forget even to ask if she desires more. Suddenly there is a scraping of chairs and tables. You look angrily around for the cause of the intrusion, and find that it is the dancing—more dancing!

Junior Plays

A Gibson-featured young man in evening suit ushers you to G, 8 and 9. Umph! Pretty good seats, but—"How do you do!" You nudge your companion. "See that jane—beg pardon—girl, over there in the red dress—?"—but the girl by your side is intently scanning the programme. Before you can tell her the sum and substance of the plays, the lights go out and you wait for the parting of the curtains. The plays are good—extremely so. Just enough variety to satisfy everyone. As you go out, favorable comments are heard on every side.

You yawn. Luckily, the passageway is dark. Thank Heaven tomorrow is a day of rest.

COMMENCEMENT

Class Day

THOSE men who are leaving the "Old Hill" have gathered with their friends for Chapel Exercises; and the dearest of friends, "Doc" Bolles, offers an uplifting and inspiring prayer. The Senior President rises to extend the welcome; the orator of the morning delivers an oration of force and character; the class poet reads his poem; and finally the Seniors sing their Class Song.

After a dinner in Goddard "Gym" we gather again for the Tree Exercises, to laugh and break the seriousness of the morning. That is the Tree Orator waving his arms and shouting so lustily; those are Seniors, in the black gowns, who blush, first one, then another, as the orator is speaking. What is all the merriment? Was the "History" of four years of college really a series of laugh-provoking episodes? Now the Senior marshal has some gifts to present to the other classes; three roars of laughter are followed by cheers which seem to resound strangely with "Prexy," "Chem Lab," and "Alumnae." Professor Lewis is inspiring a wonderful song to swell the summer breeze, "Alma Mater," and now we are marching out, with queer thrills, to cheer the buildings,—Dean, Museum, West, Packard, East, and all the others.

A long summer twilight, with sunset coloring most gorgeous, is preceding our entrance into "Fairyland." Strains of music, first martial, then low and sweet, come from somewhere over there among the trees, somewhere among the dancing Japanese lanterns. We may either sit out there on the terraces between Bal-lou and the Dearborn Gate, or we may go over to the "Gym" for a few dances. Out under the bobbing lanterns in the bewitching light for a time, you talk and perhaps listen to the music. If you chance to be a Senior you are alone with the one woman in all the world, to confide your plans for the months or years standing between Commencement and the beautiful music from "Lohengrin." Even though you have been over your ideals and hopes a thousand times, the warm, perfumed breeze, the subdued murmur of voices, the soft music, all conspire, and you are telling her all over again. We must have just one or two dances and then bid good-night to "Fairyland"—the land of sweet fragrance, enchanting music, wonderful dreams, gay gowns, happy faces, and of flickering mellow light and dancing shadows. To-morrow is Alumnae Day.

CAMPUS PROMENADE

Alumnae Day

The old Grads are back in force to-day; it is their day, to play and talk and joke. As members of the Alumnae we may have an opportunity to play in the Varsity-Alumnae baseball game; perhaps we are going away from the "Hill" for a Field Day; perhaps we are to witness a "regular" ball game. At all events we are meeting at an appointed place on the "Old Hill" for a class reunion. "Come on, Jack, there's Steve over there with a crowd of girls;—just like the old days!"

CLASS DAY—1916

Senior Dance

Yesterday was Baccalaureate Sunday, and today has been a long, restful day. The wonderful summer afternoon is ending in a burst of red and gold in the western sky. From the hill top we seem to be looking out over a sea of fire studded with mysterious beautiful islands far away,—tropical islands of red and pink and violet outlined with gold. The coloring grows slowly sombre, purple and blue and black; majestically the evening star appears, set in the wondrous purple mantle of night. We are on our way to our last undergraduate dance, for we are Seniors. Mingled are our emotions as we enter the "Gym." We are in a summer bower; there are flowers and vines and all is sublime. A gentle breeze tells us that this is the most beautiful, the most perfect summer evening since the beginning of time. Our thoughts and our talk run riot as the hours glide by into the forever; we are dancing on summer clouds; we are in some distant place, perhaps one of the tropic isles of the western sunset; all is a hazy maze. The moon has risen and set; to-morrow we graduate.

CLASS DAY—1914

Commencement Day

Students of all departments of Tufts are seated under the sheltering canvas. Fathers, mothers, sisters and fiancées are assuring themselves that a more intellectual, a more noble group of men and women were never before seated there with the gray walls of Goddard Chapel as a background. The representatives of the various schools,—Liberal Arts, Engineering, and Theological,—come forward to deliver their addresses. At last is it over; we are graduates.

The Follies of 1917

AS the Huckleberry Hollow Express pulled into the North Station, September 15, 1916, Willie Pea Green alighted with a half-scared air of importance, and timidly asked a guard where he could find Tufts College. Being duly directed, he arrived at Charlie Tuft's Hill in time for the bursar to claim his registration fee.

Sad had been the parting from Ma's apron strings, and wet had been the many tears shed, as the only son took leave of fond parents. But now Willie was here to learn many things and to unlearn many more.

Naturally he got lost in the "rushing season rush"—another term for "shopping early to avoid the jam." The kind offers of assistance fairly snowed him under, and in the excitement, his pretty red bow tie became trampled under foot and was lost. But gradually matters adjusted themselves—there were plenty of Brown and Blue ties at the Bookstore—and finally our hero became a regular college boy.

Chet Davis had such a smooth, convincing line that he sold innocent Willie the radiator of East 19 and a reserved seat in Chapel, good for the entire first semester. When Pete Symmes told him that he had better not cut any more Faculty Teas, Willie got scared, but managed to attend the rest of them and cleared up his cuts by filing a petition, as Beacham had advised.

"Humorous" Geddes wearing his nonsensical grin, and the rest of the bunch were singing "Somewhere in Asia Minor."

Willie thought it would be a good idea to run a side-show along with the regular glee club concerts but the executive committee couldn't see it. He had Harve Powers picked out for strong man, Boots Pryor and Bill Spunt for feminine aerial acrobats, Newton for juggler, Waldo for wild man, Eli Foster for announcer, Jan Friis for official ticket-seller, and Fritzzy O'Marra to hold down Maude, the proverbially balky mule. Phil Carr was to be the bearded lady, and Jumbo Rockwell was slated as the "smallest man on earth," with Cliff Geer, the famous Juliet, as spouse.

After classes, Willie rubbed down the lame football men, for Red Ryan had picked him out as a particularly fresh specimen. Down in the Field House he noticed that Jochim never used soap when taking a shower, but always asked "Muggins" Borden for a can of "Dutch" Cleanser.

Willie lived down in East Hall, the mostly-Freshman dorm, and there was always something "going on" there, especially in the morning when the boys got up. Baldwin was a violent exerciser, but never so much so as when he rolled cigarettes. Will had difficulty in nailing up his pictures for want of a hammer, but Dick Green solved the problem by advising the newcomer to "use his head."

Naturally, our hero saw Tufts wallop Harvard at the Stadium. He went "soft," but didn't take a Jacksonite, for he was small and a "little co-ed is a dangerous thing," you know. Willie noticed that Tommie Atkins was in the cheering section flanked on each side with Janes.

After his celebration of the victory, Willie had to write home for more money. He didn't use a fountain pen, as a geyser was the only logical instrument. Even though the bills were rectangular, they kept on rolling in. When dad's ship finally arrived our star decided he needed a haircut, so went to see Zack. "Take a little tip from father," said Willie, as he handed Zack a dime.

As the Glee Club Special pulled out of Bellows Falls on the Christmas trip, Sam Chapman and Charlie Derby were late as usual, but Eddie Norton was on the rear platform, and two queens were tearfully emitting a farewell. When the train stopped at Bethel to tank up, Russ Porter mysteriously left the car and there was Mabel with open arms.

One night the bunch went in town—Chick Whippen, Herb Miller, Skip Davies, and all the midnight crew. Down near the Woodcock Herb spied a derelict in the gutter.

"To what depths you have fallen, my poor man!" ventured Herb.

"Jus' (hic) takin' a res' (hic.) Don't embarrass me (hic)," was the response.

Willie's classes were a scream in places. One day in Pop Lane's Geology course, Pop said to Bill, "Your lips are like coral, your teeth like pearls, your ears, shells—and all attached to solid rock." But that wasn't half as bad as when Prof. Wilson was quoting from Babson one day, and "Ace High" Davis woke up and asked the closing prices.

At the Evening Party, Dan Cameron was having a swell time till his girl started tripping over his toes. And Dan, soft guy, thought she was falling for him.

Willie enlisted in Don McClench's Naval Reserve unit, and was appointed chief bottle washer on the good ship Chevrolet, which he understood was to be used as a submarine chaser, when the water was dusty.

Scenes at the Faculty Tea were interesting. But Willie made a bad break here. When the hot chocolate with whipped cream was passed, he put his foot on the round of a chair and blew off the cream.

"Do you know Hal Rogers has quite a musical temperament?" someone asked him. "Why sure, that guy was born in a flat," said Eddie Burns.

Spike Tyler came in to "cover" the Tea for the Weekly. Spike makes some good runs both on the gridiron and the track. He's not much of a musician, but quite a track man—a conductor on the "L."

Pete Coffey happened along about this time. Pete's some little economist, and quite a humorist as well. He had a "Boston Traveller" and was reading how the bottom fell out of the stock market. Pete says that no one was hurt.

Finally mid-years came and went. After Phil Coddington had finished his archaeology exam he remarked to Willie that he was glad to get such a heavy subject off his mind. Willie hit the exam hard and the only way he kept his Freshman hat on after that was by vacuum pressure—a process suggested by the only and original “obvious” Cooke.

After watching just one baseball game, Willie came to the conclusion that “Cement” Leland must be quite a crab—he was always good in the pinches. With the coming of spring and its intoxicating weather, Willie signed a contract with the “MacIlvain Feminine Agency, Inc.,” whereby he would be supplied with any style desired, at short notice.

Willie was drawn to church one Sunday by Barron Watson and Al Reed, but slept through most of the sermon. Al told him afterwards that the subject was “Hell—Its Location and Certainty,” and Barron said they sang “Tell Mother I’ll Be There.”

By the time June came around, most of the verdancy had disappeared from Willie and he was ready to pass on to the sublime state of a sophisticated Sophomore. And Willie has always kept on going, for—

“The boys were green and the boys were rough,
But when they came out they had the stuff!
Here’s to good old Tufts, the Brown and Blue!”

Appreciation

“IMPOSSIBLE!” This was the opinion first formed by most of the faculty and student-body when in December, 1916, a TUFTS YEAR-BOOK was proposed. It is interesting to note that the JUMBO-1917 is the first book of its kind in thirteen years, as the Class of 1904 published the last “Brown and Blue.” It is also significant, that, to the best of our knowledge, the JUMBO-1917 is the only year-book of its size or larger, published at any college in the country practically from the support of the faculty and students alone, and without reliance upon advertisements. The elementary task was a large one, of obtaining interest and support to the extent of raising one thousand dollars in ten days (one half to be in cash), in order that the demand for the book might be definitely ascertained.

To the following undergraduates who acted on the “Preliminary Canvassing Committee” much appreciation is due:

Professor M. S. Munro, by his kind and efficient work in providing most of the views of the campus and the incidental pictures of student life, has given to the JUMBO-1917 a service which has been of the utmost importance in publishing the book.

The valuable assistance of the following is gratefully recognized:

Professor Leo R. Lewis, for his very kind advice and co-operation in the work.

Those undergraduates who volunteered their assistance, and especially Miss Rowe, '17, Curtin, '17, MacAffee, '19, and Lawrence, '19.

J. E. Purdy & Co., for work on individual photographs.

Notman's Studio of Cambridge, which has supplied the majority of the group photographs and given co-operation and courtesy which has been of the best.

Howard-Wesson Co., through Mr. N. P. Makanna, for highly efficient service and assistance.

Hausauer-Jones Co., through Mr. R. J. Hausauer, for hearty co-operation and valuable advice.

And so, with but one end in view and with whole-hearted enthusiasm on the part of all concerned, the “impossible” TUFT'S YEAR-BOOK becomes a reality in the JUMBO-1917.
